Let's Start!

Pronunciation Spot: Take a journey to the Grand Canyon.

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information about travel and vacations in social situations.

Ask your partner:

- Would you prefer to visit the rainforest or the Grand Canyon? Why?
- Is there a national park near your city or town? What is it like?
- Name any place that is considered holy in your country.

Can Do Statements

- I can say and use words like a and an.
- I can say and use intonation and prominence.
- I can say where a place is.

Let's Explore!

Sally reads a pamphlet about the Grand Canyon.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

The Grand Canyon is located in the United States. It is close to the Utah and Nevada borders. It is one of the seven natural wonders of the world and an incredible place to visit!

The canyon was created over millions of years by the water from the Colorado River. It is 277 miles long and 15 miles wide. At its deepest point, it is more than one mile from the top down to the river. Tourists have an opportunity to hike in an area, carved for 17 million years by a river.

In 1919, the Grand Canyon became a national park. Tourists can learn about the history of Native Americans who lived near the canyon. Some considered the Grand Canyon a holy site, and made pilgrimages to it.

Learning Points

Articles

You use the article a before singular, countable nouns which begin with consonant sounds.

Examples:

- He is a farmer.
- She doesn't own a motorcycle.
- I saw a colorful bird in Belize.

You use the article an before singular, countable nouns which begin with vowel sounds.

Examples:

- He is an astronaut.
- Sally didn't get an invitation.
- I saw an eagle in the zoo.

Pronouncing a and an

Normally, you pronounce consonant letters with a consonant sound, and vowel letters with a vowel sound.

There are some exceptions. The rule for a or an is still the same. You just need to think about the sound, not the word.

Examples:

- a European city

EU sounds like the consonant sound at the beginning of the word you.

- a one-day tour

The sound at the beginning of ONE sounds like the consonant sound at the beginning of the word wonder.

- an F1 car

The letter F starts with a vowel sound, like in the two first letters of the word effort.

- an hour

H is silent in this word, so it sounds like our, which starts with a vowel sound.
