Let's Start!

Let's review!

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information about travel and vacations in social situations.

Ask your partner:

- How far ahead do you plan a trip? Days? Weeks? Months?
- "Prevention is better than cure." How do you usually prepare to prevent any problem during a trip?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about things to do or take on a trip.
- I can report about things, actions and events.
- I can express obligation or necessity.
- I can describe health problems.

Let's Explore!

Peter should look in on Vanessa. Why?

* To "look in on" means to check that someone is alright, especially when they are ill.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Sally: Hey Peter, nice to talk to you! You must call more!
Peter: You look great. What are you doing?
Sally: Vanessa sprained her ankle on a day walk! She's resting. She took some medication. I'm planning my next trip!
Peter: What?
Sally: She was okay on the hike down the Angel Trail!
Peter: Does she have to keep it elevated?
Sally: The ranger said she must use crutches for a while.
Peter: That's too bad.
Sally: You really should come out here! The rock formations are amazing!
Peter: Let's do a canyon trek another time!
Sally: We should take the helicopter tour!
Peter: We must plan ahead, if we want to get a permit.
Sally: You should look in on Vanessa when we get back.
Peter: If she needs help shopping, I can do that.
