Let's Start!

Let's visit the Grand Canyon!

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information about travel and vacations in social situations.

Ask your partner:

- Do you know some tourist attractions that are natural places? Make a list with your partner.
- Which one do you want to visit?

Can Do Statements

- I can ask for and respond to suggestions.
- I can give extended warnings, recommendations, or advice.
- I can talk about geographical features.

Let's Explore!

Sally and Vanessa are lucky to get a place on a canyon tour.

* You cannot go into the Grand Canyon without a permit. Tour groups have permits or you can apply for one yourself.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Sally: We're so lucky we can go into the canyon! I'm glad there is a cancellation.
Vanessa: Usually you have to book 6 months ahead if you want a permit.
Sally: We should be ready at 6 a.m. Let's fill our backpacks.
Vanessa: Good idea.
Sally: When should I set the alarm for?
Vanessa: I think 5 a.m. so that we can have breakfast.
Sally: What about snacks?
Vanessa: Trail mix is good.
Sally: The canyon is gigantic!
Vanessa: We're a mile above sea level!
Sally: It looks so rocky and dry. There are lots of rock formations!
Vanessa: Yeah. When it freezes, the cracks in the rocks get bigger!
Sally: Amazing. Are we prepared?
Vanessa: Yes. If it's bright, we wear our sunglasses!
Sally: Yeah. When it's hot, we drink more water.
Vanessa: Yep! All ready!

Let's Practice!

How do the rocks in the canyon crack?

Instructions: Practice reading the sentences aloud.

1. You have to book 6 months ahead if you want a permit.
2. When it freezes, the cracks in the rocks get bigger!
3. If it's bright, we wear our sunglasses!
4. When it's hot, we drink more water.
5. If the tour has a cancellation, we can go into the canyon.

Learning Points

Geographical Features

When you talk about geographical features, you talk about natural things like bodies of water, plants and animals, and how the land looks.

Geographical Feature	Meaning
coyote	a wild dog
plateau	a high flat area of land
cottonwood tree	a poplar tree that grows in North America
sea level	where the ocean and land meet
rocky	covered with small stones
dry	without water
rock formation	an single scenic rock configuration
scorpion	a small animal with a poisonous stinger
bighorn sheep	a woolly animal with very large curled horns
canyon	a deep valley with water at the bottom

Learning Points

The Zero Conditional

You use the zero conditional structure to describe situations where the results are automatic or usual. You use the zero conditional to suggest why you are 100% sure of the result.

You can use both if and when with the zero conditional.

Condition	Result
When the water freezes	the cracks in the rocks get bigger.
If it's bright	we wear our sunglasses.
If it's hot	we drink more water.

Examples:

- You have to book 6 months ahead if you want a permit.
- When you want a permit, you book 6 months ahead.
- If the tour has a cancellation, we can go into the canyon.
